[@] 2012 was a double-cohort year in which the first cohort of students sitting the Hong Kong Diploma of Secondary Education Examination and the last cohort of day school students sitting the Hong Kong Advanced Level Examination completed their secondary education at the same time.

[&] No statistical figures are available for the annual tuition fees charged respectively for Associate Degree and Higher Diploma programmes. Since institutions may charge different tuition fees for different levels of study in the same academic year, an average is used to represent the figure for the respective academic year and the average maximum and average minimum tuition fees charged by different institutions for each year are given.
