Note 1: The classrooms in correctional institutions (including computer rooms and/or multimedia rooms) can be used for education programmes, vocational training, tutorials and after-class study, and interest classes such as computer and language learning organised by NGOs and CSD's Rehabilitation Volunteer Group.

Note 2: Young offenders in Wai Lan Rehabilitation Centre and Lai Hang Rehabilitation Centre may go out for work or schooling during daytime.

Note 3: Adult persons in custody are required to engage in useful work in accordance with the laws unless they are excused from work on medical grounds. Despite there are no daytime education programmes for adult persons in custody in correctional institutions, the teachers and CSD officers under the Rehabilitation Unit could arrange and assist persons in custody to enrol in distance learning or self-learning courses after work.
