Test results of water samples taken from public rental housing estates

The Housing Department (HD) and the Water Supplies Department (WSD) are systematically taking water samples from public rental housing (PRH) developments in which the fresh water supply systems were installed by the Hong Kong Housing Authority's main contractors, to determine whether the lead content in drinking water exceeds the World Health Organisation (WHO)'s provisional guideline value of not more than 10 micrograms per litre. In general, HD and WSD are taking water samples for testing by batches in accordance with the completion year of the PRH developments, starting with newly completed developments and working back to the older ones. Some estates involve more than one development, and the sampling tests for each development may be completed at different times. Once a batch of water sample tests are completed, HD will immediately announce the testing results.

(Results announced for 46 PRH estates involving 83 PRH developments up to 24 September 2015)

(Note) One sample taken from a vacant unit at Hei Chuen House of Shui Chuen O Estate was found to have a lead level of 14 micrograms per litre, which slightly exceeded WHO's provisional guideline value. The water samples taken from the rest of the three domestic blocks did not exceed the value. WSD took more water samples from Hei Chuen House for testing to ascertain the situation. After analysis, it was concluded that the water sample which exceeded the value might have been affected by the environment.
